

EVALUATION OF SAFETY AND SECURITY POLICIES

Seminar series organized by

GSSI
Gran Sasso Science Institute

and

CNR – Irccres
Research Institute Sustainable Economic Growth

This seminar series will present some research studies on the evaluation of safety and security policies. The risks addressed by these policies appear to be very far from each other, nevertheless they share some common features and issues than represent a common ground for researchers. For this reason, the seminars will open the discussion over the boundaries of the community of field specialists, with the goal of building a common wisdom as economists. We will explore new concepts and methods to afford the huge challenges that socio-economic analysis and impact evaluation face when addressing safety and security.

The seminars will tentatively occur on the last Wednesday of each month in the early afternoon. Calendar:

- January 26th Evaluation and Road Safety Policies: the Case of Speed Limits
- March 10th Evaluation of occupational safety and health policies
- March 31th Economics for disaster preparedness
- April 27th Economic analysis and evaluation of cybersecurity (program to be confirmed)
